Final Edition

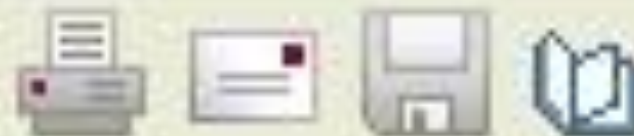

A wild, decades-long ride filled with twists and turns

BYLINE: Mark McNeil, The Hamilton SpectatorSECTION: LOCAL; Pg. A11LENGTH: 333 words

The Red Hill Valley Parkway runs from the Linc to QEW. But the real start of it can be traced to a traffic bureaucrat's office in the old City Hall building in downtown Hamilton more than a half century ago.

The Second World War was over. Hamilton was booming. And there was a growing sense that something had to be done about increasing traffic congestion.

Newspaper Search Hints

- Newspapers like The Hamilton Spectator are written at Grade Six level
- So keep your search terms simple
- Titles are written to be short and punchy, rather than informative
- Think of possible synonyms for your search terms (esp. pop or slang terms)
 - Female lone-parent family heads = single moms
 - Significant financial restriction = cash crunch
 - Immigrants and refugees = newcomers
